Chapter 1 by Mattrix

Lily's feet thudded against the ground as she sprinted. Her hand on the end of her gun, never leaving it. Moans followed her through the forest. "This is it," Lily thought to herself "It's either kill or be eaten." Suddenly Lily stopped running, she turned and raised her gun up to eye level. Slowly she closed one eye and put her finger on the trigger. All of a sudden the moaning stopped. "Crap," she shouted a little too loud. After waiting about two minutes Lily lowered the gun, panting. Screams rang out across the forest and a man with only half a face and gnarled arm jumped out grabbing Lily!

Screaming Lily struggled to keep its' gnashing teeth away from her skin. Struggling she managed to lift her gun up to underneath its chin. "Go to hell" she hissed at it before pulling the trigger. The sound rang out through the forest. "Oh no!" Lily said. She knew more would come now. They were attracted to noise. More zombies were coming!

Crows let out a loud shriek as they flew away, the ground shaking underneath them. What sounded like the biggest zombie horde was heading straight for Lily. She pondered running again but noticed the sound was all around her. The wind picked up and the trees swayed back and forth methodically.

Gunfire could be heard in the distance and that only attracted more zombies. Lily knew it was time to move again.

Chapter 3 by Story Wars

Lily fired at the zombies as she ran toward the chopper. She could hear men's voices coming from that area. Lily picked up her speed.

Lily was almost at the chopper now. That was when the army men spotted her. "Come on, come on! You can make it!" they shouted. The horde of zombies began to gain on Lily. Zombified arms tugged at her clothing.

Lily shot a few more rounds. She hit one zombie straight in the head, knocking it down. A few more zombies stumbled over the one that got shot.

Lily then arrived at the chopper. The men stood their ground, and they shot at the zombies alongside Lily. Eventually they killed all of the monsters, and there were no more in sight.

Or so they thought.

Lily heard eerie moans coming from behind them. It was a huge horde of zombies, about double the size of the group they had killed off just a minute ago.

The trio climbed back into the chopper. "Alright, let's get this damn thing off the ground," said one of the men.

The chopper flew up into the air, out of the grasp of the zombies.
